SOCRED CAMPAIGN UNDERWAY

The Social Credit Party has rented vacant downtown commercial premises next to Dave's Cafe in Drayton Valley for use as campaign headquarters.

A meeting was held there on Wednesday, July 28th attended by numerous enthusiastic campaign workers to plan for and promote the campaign to elect Tom Johnson for Social Credit in Drayton Valley Contituency.

On August 3rd, candidate Tom Johnson, and campaign workers Len Hogarth and Rev. Ken Smith will be attending an all day Social Credit Campaign Conference at the Jubilee Auditorium in Edmonton to be attended by candidates and workers from across the Province.

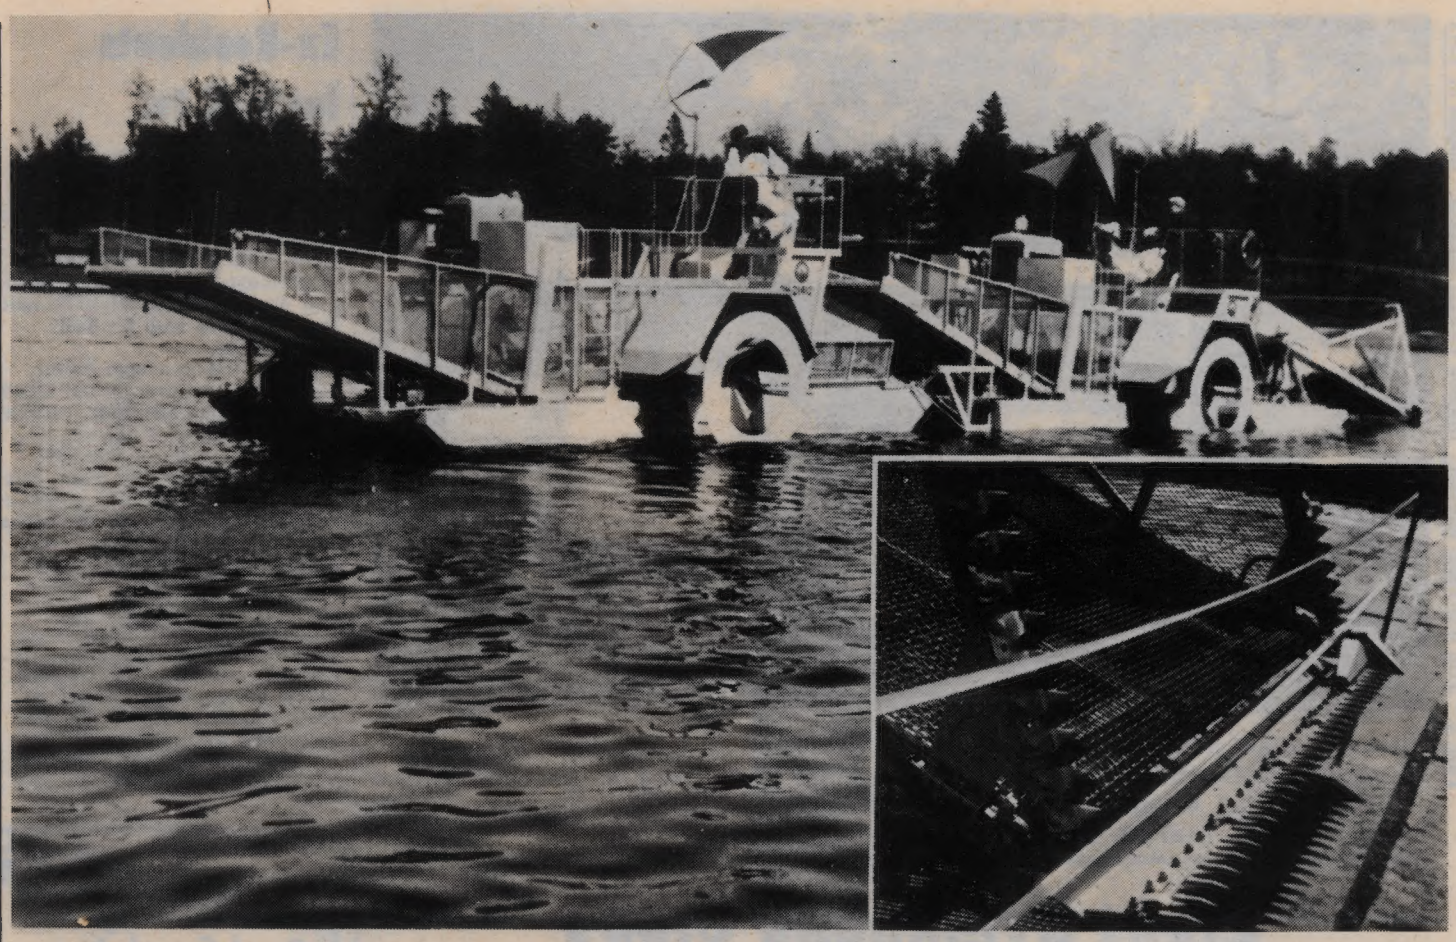
In the meantime, Mr. Johnson is actively campaigning throughout the constituency and reports an enthusiastic response for Social Credit by the electorate.

Sport Shop Plans Opening

Mr. Arnold Dunham, who took over operation of Al's Sports Shop on July 6th from Mr. Howard Jevne, has announced plans for an official opening on Friday, August 6th.

Mr. Dunham with his wife and three young sons arrived here recently from Swift Current, Saskatchewan. The family spent vacations in the area for the past three years and decided they liked the country well enough to make their home here.

Mr. Dunham was a transport driver in Saskatchewan before deciding to get into his own business.



The Alberta Government's new $51,000 weed cutter is shown here at work on Lake Wabamun.

Alberta's 'Navy' Busy with Weeds

As part of a province-wide program to enhance the recreational value of some of Alberta's lakes in Provincial Parks now infested with heavy underwater weed growth, the Alberta Department of Lands and Forests has launched a two-vessel navy to cut the nuisance weeds. The vessels were formally inaugerated this month at Lake Wabamun when the Hon. Dr. J. Donovan Ross, Minister of the Department, made the first "pass" with the cutters.

The two-vessel team is composed of a harvester and a carrier. The harvester works on the same principle as a land-bound combine. At the bow of the paddle-wheeler, forked teeth project underwater to a depth of five feet, cutting off the weeds. As they are cut, the weeds are swept onto a rotating steel mesh conveyor belt and brought to a deck-level collection point.

When loaded, the cutter's crop is removed, again by carrier belt, to the shuttle barge which takes the cut weeds back to shore.

The collected weeds are mulched on nearby farm land, although they have minimum nutrient value. Their removal inhibits any recycling pattern developing.

The harvester will serve mainly Provincial Park recreation-use lakes throughout the province in turn, as work is completed on a heavy summer's schedule.

The American vessels which cost $51,000 were built by Aquamarine Corporation of Waukesha, Wisconsin and are operated by two people. They are expected to be used from May to September each year.

It is hoped by the Department of Lands and Forests that constant cutting will eventually control the weed growth for recreation without destroying the habitat for fish and other marine life.

Drowning Victim Recovered from Lake

The body of Mr. Ron McCartney of Drayton Valley, who was drowned July 24th while boating at Lake Isle, was recovered on Sunday, August 1st.

R.C.M.P. of the Evansburg Detachment had been dragging the lake almost continually from the time of the accident until recovery on Sunday.

LOUGHEED TO VISIT DRAYTON

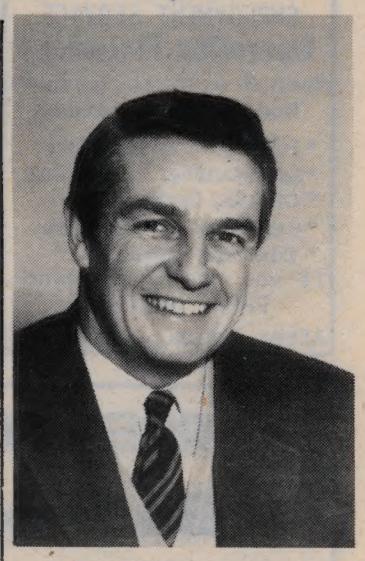
At last week's campaign meeting of the Drayton Valley P.C. Association it was announced that Peter Lougheed and his travelling campaign caravan will visit the town on Tuesday, August 10th from 11:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m.

The association has extended an invitation to the public and is hopeful of a large turnout at the Curling Rink to meet Mr. Lougheed and P.C. Candidate Rusty Zander.

Denis Meier reported at the meeting that arrangements have been finalized for a fund-raising steak dinner and dance to be held in the Elks Hall on Friday, August 20th.

The meeting was also told that the executive is working with Unifarm locals to arrange political forums at a number of points throughout the constituency.

One of the platform points discussed at the meeting is the P.C. plan for implementing legislation to exempt property-owning senior citizens from paying the education assessment on their property. Also high on the list of priorities is a program of construction of nursing homes in rural areas.



PETER LOUGHEED

The growth of smaller towns and cities was another consideration in the P.C. platform. Secondary industries, the P.C.'s say, will be fostered and encouraged for smaller communities such as Drayton Valley to help promote income growth and provide employment for young people.

Holiday Changes Printing Schedule

Another long weekend is responsible for The Western Review being a day late this week.

In the past we've managed to get the issue out on time despite holidays, but gave in this time. Long weekends create several problems with the abbreviated staff, no Monday mail and missing copy and advertising.

It appears likely that we will have to adopt a "day-late" policy in order to produce an adequate paper in the weeks following Monday holidays.

N.D.P. View of Basic Issues

What are the basic issues in the next provincial election? This is a question often asked by people when speaking to their candidate. Unfortunately too many people look at an issue as a particular problem which the present government has taken a stand for or against. The opposition, in turn, has taken the opposite stand and hence you have conflict.

Bob Price, N.D.P. candidate for Whitecourt Constituency, says, "I do not look at the basic issue as a particular problem; rather, I look at the basic issue as a general one. The basic issue is whether we, in Alberta, are going to stand up and try to solve the major problems in Alberta: pollution, foreign ownership, automobile insurance, depressed farm conditions, rural-urban disparities, and labor-management relations; or whether we are going to ignore them like the present Social Credit government, hoping that they will go away.

"Let's vote for orderly and positive change, not stagnation. The New Democratic Party believes in taking a stand on the basic issues and letting the people decide."

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

By Kevin Peterson and Don Sellar (Of the Calgary Herald)

If Albertans added up the cost of all the promises made during the first week of the Aug. 30 election campaign, they would face a bill of staggering proportions.

A university here, a power takeover there, a $50 million rural indistrialization fund on the one hand, interest-free recreation loans to municipalities on the other, day-care centres and kindergartens somewhere else and all this with no new taxes -- so far.

John Diefenbaker honed the technique into a fine art in his hey-day, and now provincial politicians in all parties -- including the government -- are adapting it to contemporary goals.

The Conservatives have shown restraint in their promises. They claim the government can juggle its finances to pay for new programs such as a fifth Alberta university without having to reach deeper into the citizen's pocketbooks.

In every Peter Lougheed campaign statement, there is a pledge to remove the education property tax burden and transfer it to provincial shoulders. Property taxes would go down but the province would have to offset its new responsibility by cutting off municipal grants and tightening its own belt.

New Democratic party leader Grant Notley makes promises on a more grandiose scale -- takeover of gas and power utilities, selective nationalization of resource industries such as coal fields.

The takeovers wouldn't mean additional taxes, he argues, because the selective process would concentrate on profitable industries at first and the NDP would look to the bond market for financing.

For its part, the Social Credit government will make promises closely tied to its revenue forecasts for the next five years. It's more impressive for a government to talk about a $400 million grid road program that takes 20 years to complete than an $8 million start on the same project in a given year.

Since the 1967 election, Albertans have seen their taxes rise on a broad front -- including income tax, a new tobacco tax, increased gasoline and road taxes, higher beer and liquor prices.

The recent slump in petroleum revenues has raised the spectre of the dreaded sales tax, something which no political party is promising in this campaign.

A 5-per-cent sales tax would have brought in $154 Million this year, according to Alberta Budget Bureau estimates. This would be almost enough to erase the anticipated $166 million deficit this year.

Everybody's opposed to Alberta losing its status as the only province which doesn't levy a sales tax. But the cost of implementing campaign promises can't be ignored -- and nobody has promised Alberta won't have a sales tax imposed during the next four years.

Hail Corporation Expects to Pay Out Nearly $2 Million

The Alberta Hail and Crop Insurance Corporation expects to pay nearly two million dollars to central Alberta farmers because of crop damage from the severe storm which ravaged that area last week.

Agriculture Minister H. A. Ruste says his department is still surveying the damage but reports so far indicate that one million of the one and one-half million acres of crops west of Red Deer, Lacombe and Ponoka received varying degrees of hail and wind damage.

An area from Sundre, Penhold and Olds east to Three Hills was also damaged extensively by hail and winds up to seventy miles per hour. Somer farmers are turning under the damaged crop or are cutting it for silage and green feed.

Mr. Ruste says he is deeply concerned by the crop losses created by the storm although the provinces crop insurance scheme will help those who bought coverage.

The Alberta Hail Studies group at Penhold says it is probably the worst storm since the early 1950's and that property and crop damage could exceed ten million dollars.

An estimated 70 per cent of the farmers in the storm area had some kind of coverage with the Alberta Hail and Crop Insurance Corporation. Mr. Ruste said about 45 per cent were covered by the all-risk crop insurance plan and an additional 25 per cent were enrolled in the hail insurance plan.

The Alberta Hail and Crop Insurance Corporation offers hail insurance up to 30 dollars per acre over the entire province. Most of the crop damage area was eligible for the all-risk crop insurance plan. The only exceptions were I. D. 10 which is west of Red Deer and the special areas near Hanna where there was some severe damage.

Mr. Ruste says the Hail and Crop Insurance Corporation expects to pay out $1,200,000 to farmers under its hail insurance plan and another $500,000 will be paid out under the all-risk plan, all from this one storm. Under the all-risk plan farmers can insure up to a value equivalent to 60 or 80 per cent of the long term average yield.

So far the corporation has received over 400 claims under the crop insurance program, over 600 claims under the hail program and it expects more to come.

While the rate of payment will vary with the type of coverage and the extent of the damage, Mr. Ruste says the corporation expects average payments from the latest storm to run about ten dollars an acre.

The minister urges farmers not to touch damaged crops that were insured under the corporation until adjusters have had a chance to inspect the damage.

Drive safely and enjoy your vacation.

FROG FOOD — Frogs abound in and around lakes and marshes. They eat great quantities of insects. In turn they are food for herons, bitterns, various shorebirds, marsh hawks and northern pike. Their eggs and tadpoles are eaten by waterfowl and fish. The leopard frog is common in marshes and the smaller wood frog, found around marsh edges and wet woodlands.

Reports Pouring In to Project Headquarters on Big Storm

The Alberta Hail Studies Project has spent the last few days collecting as much information as possible on the severe hailstorms that swept through central Alberta on Friday July 23. Although reports are still pouring in to project headquarters, enough information is now available to give a general picture of the extent and severity of these storms. The day started off in an unusual way with a localized but severe hailstorm at 4:00 a.m. to the west of the Hobbema Indian Reserve. Several farmers in a two mile wide strip reported 100% crop damage which is rare for an overnight storm. However, this was only a foretaste of what was to come later in the day.

The first major storm formed in the foothills southwest of Sundre between 1:00 and 2:00 p.m. and then tracked due east at about 25 mph. The storm passed just north of Didsbury, over Three Hills, and was still being tracked 50 miles east of Hanna at 8:00 p.m. A detailed telephone survey was conducted on this storm and over 500 hail reports were collected. The hail swath was 150 miles long and averaged 10 miles in width. Several pockets of hail walnut size or larger occurred causing moderate to severe damage. The winds picked up as the storm passed east of Drumheller and damage was very heavy in the Hanna area.

Later in the afternoon, a surge of cold air moving down the east side of the Rockies produced a severe squall line which formed up from Edson to Nordegg and then swept southeast across central Alberta with wind gusts up to 70 mph. The temperatures dropped 20 to 30 degrees with the arrival of the colder air. These winds caused heavy property damage in Red Deer and Calgary but this was nothing compared to the devastation inflicted on the crops.

The hail with this system came in on a 30 mile wide front between Rimbey and Rocky Mountain House, across Lacombe and Red Deer and then narrowed to a 10 mile wide swath through Joffre, Nevis, Stettler and out to Halkirk. The total area covered by hail from this storm was about 3500 square miles. Over one hundred farmers have reported 100% crop damage to us spread out over an area of 1000 square miles. Some of the hail was very large, particularly south of Rimbey, where baseball sized hail drifted a couple of feet deep and shattered windows and stripped paint off buildings. However, the strong winds were a major contributing factor to the widespread damage so that even with the smaller grape sized hail, damage was very severe. Fields that last week were lush green are already turning yellow and a stench of rotting crops fills the air.

So far the Alberta Hail Studies Project has received 900 hail reports and 300 of these are for walnut size or larger. Eight farmers reported hail larger than golfballs One thousand claims have already been filed with the Alberta Crop and Hail Insurance Corporation. When all the reports and claims are in, this will probably turn out to be the worst storm since the early 1950's. The total real loss to property and crops in Alberta from these two major storms on July 23 is now expected to exceed $10 million.

A cloud seeding experiment was conducted by the Alberta Hail Studies on the southern storm. The T-33 jet dropped a total of 104 flares into the storm over a 1½ hour period from west of Didsbury to west of Three Hills. However, first indications are that this seeding had little effect on the storm, but final conclusion will have to await analysis of all the data collected. The sampling trucks were well located and collected a total of 50 rain and hail samples between Didsbury and Three Hills. In addition the cooperating farmers at our special sampling stations collected another 70 samples of rain and hail. It will thus be possible to do a very detailed analysis of where the seeding material put into the storm came out in the precipitation.

The seeding aircraft landed at Calgary airport to refuel and take on another load of flares. It was planned to seed the second storm, but the strong winds prevented use of the large radar antenna at Penhold. Then, the prolonged power failure put all the radar and radio communications off the air, and so another experiment could not be carried out. Last Friday's storms serve to point out the great difficulty of developing an operational hail suppression program to cope with severe storms over such a large area. But, as research and experimentation continue around the world and here in Alberta, a solution to this problem should eventually be found.

LIFE BEGINS AT 40

Are you and your family planning a picnic this weekend? If you are planning one, here are a few safeguards you should remember when packing your picnic basket.

Did you know that life begins at 40? 40 Fahrenheit that is, for most bacteria. Bacteria likes to grow and thrive in a warm, moist medium like food.

What are the symptoms? Food poisoning symptoms are usually an upset stomach with severe pains, nausea and a general upset feeling. Careless food preparation habits cause this ailment.

Food may become contaminated by harmful bacteria if exposed to such sources as: An unclean kitchen or factory; Food handlers (that includes Mom) with unwashed hands, bad coughs, or infected cuts; and flies, insects and rats.

"Cleanliness is probably the most important single factor in prevention of food poisoning. Keep the following in mind when buying or packaging your picnic food:-

If you don't have a cooler, consider freezing sandwiches for the picnic or motor trip. Then just before you leave, remove sandwiches from freezer and place in the picnic basket.

Some suitable fillings that will freeze well are cheese, sliced or canned meats, poultry, fish and peanut butter. Avoid freezing fillings made from lettuce, tomatoes, cucumbers, chopped egg white, jelly or mayonnaise.

One way of keeping picnic sandwiches cold is to freeze unopened tins of apple juice, tomato juice and place them among the sandwiches in the picnic hamper. Wrap the cans in plastic bags or foil wrap to keep moisture that condenses on outside from wetting the food around them.

Add plenty of pickles, vinegar, lemon juice, catsup or other acid foods to your sandwich filling mixtures because food poisoning bacteria does not grow well in an acid media.

Foods that deserve priority on your menu are breads, cured or pickled meats, washed raw fruits and vegetables and most commercially canned foods.

Keep cold food cold, and hot food hot, until they are served. Lukewarm meats are ideal places for bacterial growth.

Take care in preparing jellied salads, potato salad, chicken salad and sandwich fillings as no food is handled more in preparation than these salads.

With these precautions in mind you will have no worries about the danger of food poisoning.

So the keys to prevention of food poisoning are firstly: cleanliness - make sure hands and utensils are clean and secondly: that all picnic foods should be refrigerated immediately after preparation and kept as cool as possible until used.

HOW'RE THEY REALLY DOING DOWN ON THE FARM?

Overheard on Main Street, anytown -- Joe: "Everything is up in price at the supermarket." Jim: "You said it! The farmers must be getting rich".

Heard any conversation like that lately? If so were you able to jump in with some cold hard facts and figures to set things straight.

If not, hold on to this little pocket-sized "farm fallacy fighter". Developed from Canada Department of Agriculture and Dominion Bureau of Statistics information, it contains some right-to-the-point data you can use to clear the air of "popular misinformation".

Next time someone starts talking loosely about how farmers are "living off the fat of the consumer taxpayer', just bring out the facts, and watch his expression change.

WHAT DO WE PAY FOR FOODS IN STORES

Fact -- While food costs have followed a general upward trend, the rise in food prices has come from smaller increases than the rise in prices of all other items. Food prices in the cost-of-living index from 1952 to 1967 have risen about 21% (from an index of 120 to 145) while costs of all other items in the index went up 25% (from 120 to 150)

Look at the record of what it has taken to buy food over the past 20 or so years. In 1945, a pound of round steak cost about 39.6¢. And, while that same pound of steak cost about $1.02½ as recently as 1966, average industrial wages went up too (from 74¢ per hour to $2.75 per hour in 1966). So, in 1966, a male assembly worker in an automotive plant, for instance, didn't have to put in as much work to pay for a pound of steak as he might have 21 years earlier. 1 pound of steak in 1945 took 32 minutes, in 1966 took 22 minutes; 1 pound of bacon in 1945 took 38 minutes, in 1966 took 25 minutes; 1 dozen oranges in 1945 took 30 minutes, in 1966 took 12 minutes; and 1 quart of milk in 1945 took 8 minutes, in 1966 took 6 minutes.

So, why are food bills up at the supermarket? The cost of processing foods is one answer. Many of our popular modern foods are canned, frozen, concentrated, dehydrated, ready-mixed, ready-to-serve or in heat- and-serve form. And costs of transporting and packaging foods is another. Non-food items that enter into the total checkout tape are still another answer.

In other words, the cost of marketing food has sent the grocery bills up to a large extent in recent years.

(To be continued next week)

Some Changes In New Hunting Regulations Announced Recently

All hunting seasons and regulations for 1971 have now been declared. The Hon. Dr. J. Donovan Ross, Alberta Minister of Lands and Forests said that although seasons are similar to last year there have been some regulation changes.

Licence fees have not been changed from last year; however, there has been a cougar licence instituted which will entitle the holder to take one cougar during the January 15, 1972 to March 15, 1972 cougar season. The licence fee has been set at $75 for non-residents and $25 for residents. The holder of an elk licence may take a cougar from September 17 to December 11.

A special deer study has been established in the Rochester area and a portion of Wildlife Management Unit 506 will be closed for the hunting of deer to facilitate this program.

The bear study area in the Cold Lake district will be continued for the 1971 hunting season and this area will also be closed for killing of bears.

The Fish and Wildlife Division is undertaking a program requiring the compulsory registration of certain big game animals. Any person who kills a mountain sheep, cougar, caribou or grizzly bear will be required to file a report with the Fish and Wildlife Division. Information concerning the species taken, date of kill, W.M.U. in which the animal was taken, sex, and estimated age will be recorded. In addition, any person killing a grizzly bear will be required to show the hide and skull to a Fish and Wildlife Officer for positive identification and aging purposes. The information to be secured from the registration program is required for the effective management of the rarer trophy species in the province.

Limited hunting of hen pheasants will be permitted throughout the province this fall. During the period from October 8 to October 30 the daily bag limit will be three pheasants, one of which may be a hen. The possession limit during this period will be nine birds, three of which may be hens. From November 1 to December 4 the daily bag limit will be five pheasants of which no more than one may be a hen. The possession limit for this period will be 15, of which three may be hens.

Sharptailed grouse seasons and bag limits have been reduced throughout the province. The general season is from September 15 to October 15, 1971, excluding Bird Zones 5 and 6. The season for sharptailed grouse in Zones 5 and 6 extends from September 15 to September 30 only. Daily bag and possession limits for sharptailed grouse are three and nine respectively.

Bow hunters will no longer be required to wear scarlet or blaze orange clothing in W.M.U. S410 and during any period of time that has been set aside for hunting exclusively with archery equipment. There will be a special Archery Season from August 28 to September 25 in Big Game Zone 5. The use of arrows with metal shafts will be permitted this fall.

Persons successful in taking black bears will no longer be required to bring the meat out. The law now permits a person who kills a grizzly bear, black bear, or cougar to leave the meat of these animals in the field.

The hunting of elk surrounding the Cypress Hills Provincial Park will be permitted between the period of November 8, 1971 and March 11, 1972. This season has been authorized in order to abate problems created by elk coming from the provincial park onto privately owned land during the winter months.

Persons interested in hunting non-trophy sheep should contact their local Fish and Wildlife Division Office for applications. This also applies to Camp Wainwright deer season. The deadline date for receiving non-trophy sheep applications is August 7, 1971 and for the Camp Wainwright licence it has been set for October 16, 1971.

Caribou hunting in Big Game Zone 6 has been restricted to male animals only. Hunters are urged to be careful when taking animals in view of the fact that both sexes may carry antlers during the hunting season. To be sure, a hunter should select an animal having antlers that are well branched and protrude at least twelve inches above the head.

Whether or not there will be an Antelope Season will be decided after the summer surveys are completed.

The 1971 Summary of Game Regulations is now available through all Fish and Wildlife Division Officers, Dr. Ross said.

HART CANTELON

Readers wishing to write to Mr. Cantelon are invited to do so. All letters to be forwarded to Hart Cantelon Counselling Services Ltd., 1600 Cambridge Building, Edmonton. Please include a stamped self-addressed envelope to ensure a reply.

Dear Mr. Cantelon:
How does one go about explaining the facts of life to a fatherless eleven-year-old boy? Are there books or publications available, and if so, where? Are there pamphlets an eleven-year-old could read and understand?

Dear Concerned Mother:
There are many items available. I've mentioned these publications before, but they bear repeating. Here are a few: Facts of Life and Love for Teen- agers - Evelyn Duvall; The Stork is Dead - Charlie W. Shedd; I Wonder, I Wonder - Concordia Series on Sex Education; The Highroad - Concordia Series on Sex Education; Love, Sex and the Teenager - Rhoda L. Lorend; About Sex, and Growing Up - Evelyn Duvall; As Boys Grow - The Health Education Services of the Provincial Government, Edmonton, Alberta; The Teenagers You-re Dating - Reise; and Your Teen Years - Metropolitan Life Assurance Company.
All of these are available at any bookstore, your library, or the address indicated where pamphlets are concerned.

Dear Mr. Cantelon:
My husband died recently. The other night, as I was reading the newspaper, something seemed to touch me on the arm. I looked up and had the queerest feeling. I thought "now I'm all alone and my husband is completely gone." It is so lonely to be all alone after having been so happy for so many, many years. If I could only understand why it happened or how. When I think of living like this for even a few more months, I have just one hope that I will not become so troubled that I hurt myself and others about me. Can you help?

Dear Troubled:
There are many stages to our thoughts as we face the fact of death. As you have indicated, the first is that of terrible isolation and loneliness. There will be times when you feel angry, and wonder why God has done this to you. You'll want to know the reason why, and try to bargain your way into satisfying the many questions in your mind as to what has happened. Sometimes you'll be very depressed and feel that another day just isn't worth living. But, at last, you'll come to accept what has happened and find your feet standing firm on the rock of the hope which faith provides. Life has a total plan. Not just the three-score-and-ten that this earthly life provides. But a purpose which is so all-encompassing and wonderful that it takes God an eternity to make of each one of us the kind of a child he would have us be. Get some reading material by such authors as Dr. Lesslie Weatherhead, or Dr. Elizabeth Kubler-Ross. This will help. Above all else talk to a friend or your clergyman, and ask that person to visit you regularly so that you can talk through your anxieties and concerns. Lastly, don't forget to talk with God. This is the best therapy of all.

Dear Mr. Cantelon:
My boyfriend has gone up north to work. Before he left I gave him my word that I would have nobody for sex while he's gone. I sincerely and absolutely wanted to live up to my word to him. Everyday, I thought about living up to that word. On Saturday, one guy phoned me and asked me to go to his girlfriend's place to listen to records. I told him "I'll go out with you, but no sex." Well, so we went there. I agreed to hold his hand. Later he persuaded me to go one step further. By the time I had realized I had gone too far. But it was too late, because as I objected, he gave me a real cruel look and scared me. What hurts me is that I so intensely wanted to keep my word. When he comes back, I'll be sure to be asked, if I had sex with anyone while he was gone. It's going to hurt me so much that I didn't live up to my word. And if I tell him what happened he'll probably ask why I got into that situation in the first place.

Dear Girlfriend:
Your letter dramatically describes what happens to a girl when she lives according to the influences of a permissive society. Your first mistake was to have sex with anyone outside of marriage including your boyfriend. It is so easy, once you've given this special relationship to one special boy, to go a step further and offer yourself to another. This "joe" you went out with knew this. That was why he insisted despite your objections. You had done it before, so you'd do it again. Sure, he was angry, when you tried to turn him off. He was out for but one thing - a selfish satisfaction at your expense. And selfishness gets angry, when it doesn't get its own way. You have no other alternative than be honest with your boyfriend up north, and tell him the whole sordid story. Then, for goodness sake, try to keep your nose clean. Remember, God's forgiveness is there for all of us, and when you ask for it, you'll find the strength to keep the promise you so much wanted to fulfill.

He opened up the north with baling wire, canvas and courage – and maybe the thought of Lethbridge Old Style Pilsner waiting when he made it back home. Alberta's original Pilsner has logged a lot of miles and quenched a lot of thirsts in nearly fifty years; and it tastes as good today as it did way-back when. Slow-brewed and naturally aged for men who appreciate the down-to-earth flavour of an honest, old-time beer. Try it.

Market Survey Authorized

A market survey to determine how Alberta agricultural products can capture a larger share of the fast growing commercial and institutional food industry has been authorized by the Alberta department of agriculture.

According to Agriculture Minister H.A. Ruste, a food industry firm has been hired to explore present food purchasing, preparation, sales and distribution techniques and to assess the present and future needs of the industry. The firm will also prepare proposals to enable Alberta grown commodities to capture a larger share of this market.

He said the survey is being undertaken because of the growing market potential of large public institutions such as hospitals, universities, schools, etc. and because of the rapid growth in the hotel, restaurant, drive-in and food catering services.

Mr. Ruste noted that this institutional and commercial trade represents a 50-billion dollar annual business in the United States, and by 1980 is expected to account for almost 50 per cent of that country's annual food sales. This type of business should soon reach a level of $35,000,000 annually in Alberta and the minister says our objective is to secure a greater share of that market for Alberta farmers.

Wide Choice At Colleges

Are you interested in any of the new careers open to graduates of the technology courses being offered this year at the Alberta department of agriculture's three regional colleges? Then write today to the Olds, Vermilion or Fairview college and ask for a copy of their 1971 calendar.

The ever-increasing need for well trained people in the technical field is being met by these colleges. The number of courses being offered and the number of career choices available to graduates is greater than ever. Courses are available to both city and rural residents as well as to men and women of all ages who want to find a new way of earning a living.

A grade XI educational standing with certain specified subjects is the only qualification that must be met by prospective candidates. Anyone interested in a technician's course who does not have his grade XI, or who does not have the required subjects, can take an up-grading course at any of the colleges. Special consideration is given to adults wanting to take these courses.

Following is a list of the technology courses that will be available this fall: Agricultural Equipment; Agricultural Mechanics Pre-Employment; Farm & Ranch Production; Field Crop Production; Horticulture; Land Classification; Livestock Feeds; Livestock Production; Soil & Fertilizers; Soil & Water (Irrigation); Renewable Resources; Pesticides & Chemicals; Building Materials Merchandising; Systems Engineering; Animal Reproduction (Artificial Insemination); Diesel Mechanics; Home Economics (Foods & Textiles); Fashion Merchandising; Business Administration; and Secretarial Arts (10 months training).

Additional information is available from the registrar at any of the three colleges. It is your future, so write today to the Olds, Vermilion, or Fairview college.

NEW LICENSE RENEWAL FORM

The Honourable G. E. Taylor, Alberta Minister of Highways and Transport, announces that the Motor Vehicle Branch will use a newly designed vehicle licence renewal form in 1972.

The new design changes the form from the present three-part construction to a single-part unit which will result in an annual saving of $20,000.00 to the Department. The self-mailer feature was used for the past two years will be retained; this feature saves $10,000.00 in envelope costs each year.

The revised renewal form will incorporate a certificate of registration which will fit a standard size wallet.
